

Celebrate Matariki with new winter reading

Mānawatia a Matariki mā te pānui i tēnei hōtoke.

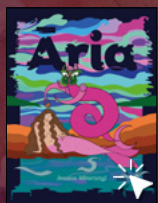

Matariki marks the passage of another year; a time to remember the dead and to celebrate new life; to reflect on the previous year, and to let it go; to look to the promise of a new season and a new year. In the past, in the cold months around Matariki, people would gather to keep warm, share kai and share knowledge through pūrākau (stories) and song . . . here are some new books from Aotearoa to share this winter.
